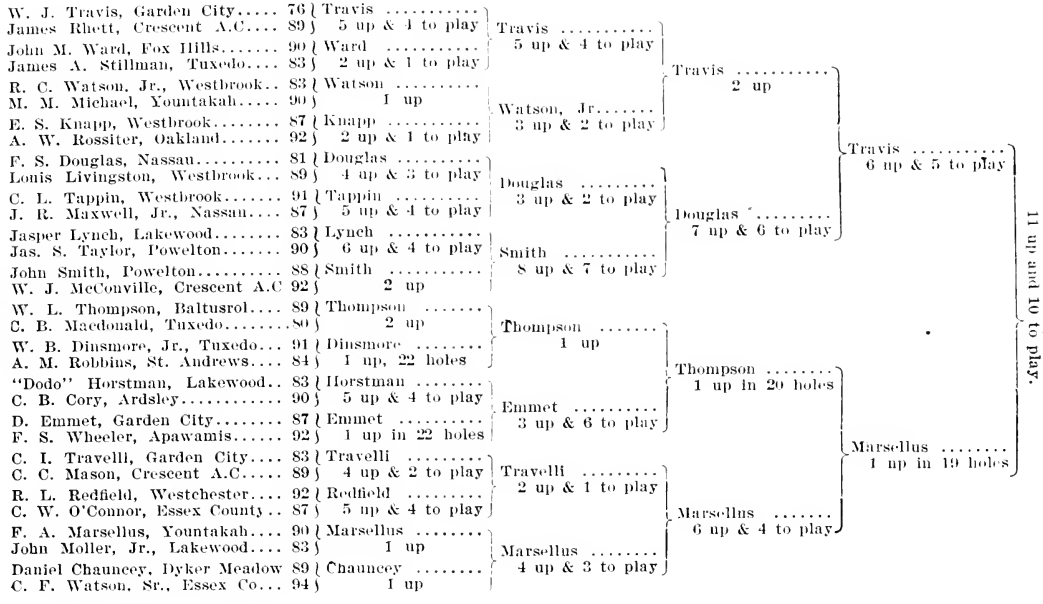
No cards—H. E. Pierrepont, Jr., Dyker Meadow; J. L. Taylor, Dyker

FOURTH ANNUAL TOURNAMENT METROPOLITAN GOLF ASSOCIATION.

Held at Tuxedo Club, May 28th, 29th, 30th, 31st, 1902.



Meadow; Price Collier, Tuxedo; W. L. Gunther, Fox Hills; N. F. Griffin, Richmond Hill.

The four who tied at 94 for the thirty-second place played off at once. Chadwick and Brokaw, who did a 79, dropped out at the first hole, where Carnegie and Watson had fours. The latter had a four on the second, Carnegie taking five, which let in the Essex County player. Meantime the committee had been placing the men for the first match play round on the new system. It was:

First Half—1 and 17, 9 and 25, 5 and 21, 13 and 29, 3 and 19, 11 and 27, 7 and 23, 15 and 31.

Second Half—2 and 18, 10 and 26, 6 and 22, 14 and 30, 4 and 20, 12 and 28, 8 and 24, 16 and 32.

LAWRENCE AUCHTERLONIE

OPEN CHAMPION

GLENVIEW GOLF CLUB AND BELLAIR.

GOLF IN 1902

There was not the same increase in the number of new clubs and players in 1902 that there was in 1901, but the game fully held its own, and this, considering that it has now passed by several years the "fad" age, is a most healthful sign. What increase there was confined itself principally to the West, where they are now about in the stage the sport had reached along the Atlantic coast in 1900 and 1901.

A number of clubs which had allowed the years of 1900 and 1901 to pass without giving tournaments, held meetings last year, and already there have been so large a number of dates asked for in 1903 that it is assured that the number of tournaments will be quite as great, if not in fact greater, than the number run off in 1900, the banner tournament year of the royal and ancient game in America.

Another fact which shows that the game is prospering and growing on its real merits and that enthusiasm for it is not an ephemeral bubble induced by other considerations, is that 1902 had no "brass band" aids as it were. By "brass band" aids is meant such things as Harry Vardon's tour of America, the benefit of which can hardly be estimated, the National tournaments carried on before brilliant galleries and under auspicious weather conditions. On the contrary, anything more disagreeable can hardly be conceived than the weather at these meetings, and there were absolutely no visiting golfers or spectacular matches to attract attention. Golf in the West received a certain boom through the holding of the Amateur National Championship at Chicago, and a much greater one by the capturing of the title by Louis N. James, a young Chicago boy, who was just about to enter upon his freshman year at college. The tournament was played in a frightful storm, and over links in such bad condition that its winner is by no means considered to have proved his with that shown in previous championships, is entirely out of the question. The only regrettable thing about the tournament was that its winner is by no means considered to have proved his legitimate right to the title of America's champion golfer. In fact he is generally thought to be more of an accidental than a rightful titleholder, and W. J. Travis, the present Metropolitan and prior National champion, is regarded as his master at any time.

The West, and this is the first time it has held two titles in the same year, also has the Open Champion in Laurence Auchterlonie, a Scotchman who has been regarded in Chicago for a number of years as the best professional golfer in the country. He made a runaway of the tournament and finished so many strokes to the good that he may be considered a legitimate victor.

For the second year in succession, Miss Genevieve Hecker demonstrated by her play in the Women's National Championship that she is in a class by herself as compared to the other women of America, for she won the championships in hollow style. The tournament began in a wild downpour of rain and wind on the links of the Country Club of Brookline, and though it was weather which would have caused many a masculine golfer to withdraw to the comforts of a pipe and a "scotch," the women played with just as much enthusiasm as though the weather was ideal, and their exhibition of pluck was a notable commentary on the standard of sportsmanship our feminine golfers have attained. The National Championships of 1903 have been allotted, and the West for the first time in the history of golf in America has been awarded the honor of holding the women's meeting. This is no more than a fair recognition of the skill and pluck of Miss Bessie Anthony, the Western woman champion, who has entered the tournament for several years and always been prominent, Miss Janna Carpenter, and Mrs. Gilman Brown, of San Francisco, who came all the way to Boston to represent the Pacific Coast last year, and brought with her the promise of a goodly delegation in 1903 if Chicago was chosen for the tourney.

FRED HERD
EX-OPEN CHAMPION

JIM HERD
WASHINGTON PARK
CHICAGO

The year 1902 saw no less than five very decided innovations made in the method of conducting the National Championships for Women and Amateurs.

Three of these were made in the amateur tourney, and consisted of a radical change in the method of drawing for match play, the doubling of the number to qualify for it, and the changing of the preliminary match play rounds from thirty-six to eighteen holes.

Never before had more than the first thirty-two in the qualifying round done so, but so large was the number of entries and so general a high standard of skill, that the U. S. G. A. increased the number to 64. Even at this liberal number, however, there was a tie for admittance, and strangely enough the ultimate winner of the championship was one of those who tied.

There are many who believe that the change to but eighteen holes in the early match play rounds is a mistake, and gives the power player a chance to win by luck, and the advocates of this theory point to the defeat of Mr. Travis by a man whom he ordinarily would defeat as a proof, but this is generally regarded as too special an instance to be considered very strongly in weighing the question.

For the first time, too, in the history of the U. S. G. A. Championships, the draw was arbitrarily made on a basis fixed by the qualifying scores, instead of being left to chance, and while this did not prove an unqualified success, it may on another test be found an excellent plan. In the Women's National Championship two of these changes mentioned above were made. The number to qualify was fixed at 32, double the number heretofore qualifying, and the draw was made upon the arbitrary arrangement. However as the best player won the tournament, there was more satisfaction over its adoption in this meeting than there was in the Amateur Championship.

OFFICIAL RULES

The United States Golf Association, in making these Rulings and Interpretations, has made no change in the wording, nor in the import, of the Rules of Golf, as adopted by the Royal and Ancient Golf Club of St. Andrews, but has only added such definitions and explanations as appeared to be called for, or suggested by custom and decisions of competent experts.

RULES OF GOLF.

1. DEFINITIONS.—(a) The Game of Golf is played by two sides, each playing its own ball. A side consists of one or two players. If one player plays against another the match is called a "single." If two play against two, it is called a "foursome." One player may play against two playing one ball between them, when the match is called a "threesome." Matches constituted as above shall have precedence of and be entitled to pass any other kind of match.

RULING OF THE U. S. G. A.

"Match Play" is decided by the number of holes won.

"Medal Play" is decided by the aggregate number of strokes.

"Col. Bogey" is an imaginary opponent, against whose arbitrary score each competitor plays by holes; otherwise bogey competitions are governed by the Special Rules for Stroke Competitions, except that a competitor loses the hole.

When the ball is lost;

When the ball is not played where it lies except as otherwise provided for in the Rules.

(b) The game consists in each side playing a ball from a teeing ground into a hole by successive strokes, and the hole is won by the side which holes its ball in fewer strokes than the opposite side, except as otherwise provided for in the Rules. If the sides hole out in the same number of strokes, the hole is halved.

AND DALLAS, TEXAS

RULING OF THE U. S. G. A.

In Competitions:

In Match Play, when two competitors have halved their match, they shall continue playing hole by hole till one or the other shall have won a hole, which shall determine the winner of the match.

Should the match play competition be a handicap, the competitors must decide the tie by playing either one hole or more according to the manner in which the handicap ceded falls upon certain holes so as to make the extra holes a fairly proportionate representation of the round.

In Medal Play, when two or more competitors are tied, the winner shall be determined by another round of the course; except that By-Laws 14 and 18 of the United States Golf Association provide that, in case of ties for the sixty-fourth place in the Amateur Championship medal rounds, or the thirty-second place in the Woman's Championship medal rounds, respectively, the contestants so tied shall continue to play until one shall have gained a lead by strokes, the hole or holes to be played out.

(c) The teeing-ground is the starting point for a hole and shall be indicated by two marks placed in a line, as nearly as possible at right angles to the course.

The hole shall be 4¼ inches in diameter, and at least 4 inches deep.

(d) The "putting green" is all ground within 20 yards of the hole, except hazards.

(e) A "hazard" is any bunker, water (except casual water), sand, path, road, railway, whin, bush, rushes, rabbit scrape, fence or ditch. Sand blown on to the grass, or sprinkled on the course for its preservation, bare patches, sheep track, snow, and ice, are not hazards. Permanent grass within a hazard is not a part of the hazard.

TOM BENDELOW
CHICAGO

(f) "Through the green" is any part of the course except "hazards" and the putting-green which is being played to.

(g) "Out of bounds" is any place outside the defined or recognized boundaries of the course.

(h) "Casual water" is any temporary accumulation of water (whether caused by rainfall or otherwise) which is not one of the ordinary and recognized hazards of the course.

(i) A ball is "in play" as soon as the player has made a stroke at the teeing-ground in each hole and remains in play until holed out, except when lifted in accordance with the Rules.

(j) A ball has "moved" only if it leave its original position in the least degree, and stop in another; but if it merely oscillate, without finally leaving its original position it has not "moved."

(k) A ball is "lost" if it be not found within five minutes after the search for it is begun.

(l) A match consists of one round of the Links, unless it be otherwise agreed.

A match is won by the side which is leading by a number of holes greater than the number of holes remaining to be played. If each side win the same number of holes, the match is halved.

(m) A "stroke" is any movement of the ball caused by the player, except as provided for in Rule 3, or any downward movement of the club made with the intention of striking the ball.

(n) A "penalty stroke" is a stroke added to the score of a side under certain rules, and does not affect the rotation of play.

(o) The "honor" is the privilege of playing first from a teeing-ground.

(p) A player has addressed the ball when he has taken up his position and grounded his club, or if in a hazard, when he has taken up his position preparatory to striking the ball.

(q) The reckoning of strokes is kept by the terms "the odd," "two more," "three more," etc., and "one off three," "one off two," "the like." The reckoning of holes is kept by the terms so many "holes up," or "all even," and so many "to play."

2. A match begins by each side playing a ball from the first teeing ground.

The player who shall play first on each side shall be named by his own side.

The option of taking the honor at the first teeing-ground shall be decided, if necessary by lot.

A ball played from in front of, or more than two club lengths behind the marks indicating the teeing-ground, or played by a player when his opponent should have had the honor, may be at once recalled by the opposite side, and may be re-teed without penalty.

The side which wins a hole shall have the honor at the next teeing-ground. If a hole has been halved, the side which had the honor at the previous teeing-ground shall retain the honor.

On beginning a new match the winner of the long match in the previous round shall have the honor, or if the previous match was halved, the side which last won a hole shall have the honor.

Ruling of the U. S. G. A.

Penalty for playing a ball outside of the limits of teeing ground:

In Match Play, the ball may be at once recalled by the opponent, no stroke being counted for the misplay.

In Medal Play, disqualification.

Penalty for leading off the tee out of turn:

In Match Play, the ball may be at once recalled by the opponent, no stroke being counted for the misplay.

In Medal Play no penalty—but it is customary in Medal Play to observe the honor.

3. If the ball fall or be knocked off the tee in addressing it, no penalty shall be incurred, and it may be replaced, and if struck when moving no penalty shall be incurred.

4. In a threesome or foursome the partners shall strike off alternately from the teeing-ground, and shall strike alternately during the play of the hole.

If a player play when his partner should have done so, his side shall lose the hole.

RULING OF THE U. S. G. A.

Penalty:

In Match Play, loss of the hole.

In Medal Play, two strokes.

5. When the balls are in play, the ball further from the hole which the players are approaching shall be played first, except as otherwise provided for in the Rules. If a player play when his opponent should have done so, the opponent may at once recall the stroke. A ball so recalled shall be dropped in the manner prescribed in Rule 4, as near as possible to the place where it lay, without penalty.

RULING OF THE U. S. G. A.

"Otherwise provided for" in Medal Rule 11:

In Match Play, ball may be at once recalled by the opponent, no stroke being counted for the misplay.

In Medal Play, no penalty—the ball may not be recalled.

6. The ball must be fairly struck at, not pushed, scraped, nor spooned, under penalty of the loss of the hole.

RULING OF THE U. S. G. A.

Penalty:

In Match Play, loss of the hole.

In Medal Play, two strokes.

7. A ball must be played wherever it lies or the hole be given up, except as otherwise provided for in the Rules.

RULING OF THE U. S. G. A.

"Otherwise provided for" in Rules 8, 10, 12, 14, 16, 21, 22, 27, 30, 34.

Penalty:

In Match Play, loss of the hole.

In Medal Play, two strokes, except as otherwise provided for in Medal Rules 6, 8, 9, 10, 11.

8. Unless with the opponent's consent, a ball in play shall not be moved, nor touched before the hole is played out, under penalty of one stroke, except as otherwise provided in the Rules. But the player may touch his ball with his club in the act of addressing it, provided he does not move it, without penalty.

If the player's ball move the opponent's ball through the green, the opponent, if he chooses, may drop a ball (without Penalty) as near as possible to the place where it lay, but this must be done before another stroke is played.

RULING OF THE U. S. G. A.

"Otherwise provided for" in Rules 10, 12, 14, 16, 21, 22, 27, 30, 34 and Medal Rules 6, 8, 9, 10, 11.

Penalty:

In Match Play, for moving or touching, one stroke.

In Medal Play, one stroke.

If a competitor's ball be displaced by another competitor's ball it must be replaced, or its owner shall be disqualified.

9. In playing through the green, any loose impediment (not being in or touching a hazard) which is within a club length of the ball may be removed. If the player's ball move after any such loose impediment has been touched by the player, his partner, or either of their caddies, the penalty shall be one stroke. If any loose impediment (not being on the putting-green) which is more than a club length from the ball be removed, the penalty shall be the loss of the hole.

RULING OF THE U. S. G. A.

Penalty for ball moved (not in hazard) after removing loose impediment within club length of the ball:

In Match Play, one stroke.

In Medal Play, one stroke.

Through the green, for removing loose impediment more than a club length from the ball:

10. Any vessel, wheelbarrow, tool, roller, grass-cutter box, or similar obstruction may be removed. If a ball be moved in so doing, it may be replaced without penalty. A ball lying on or touching such obstruction, or on clothes, nets, or ground under repair or covered up or opened for the purpose of the upkeep of the Links, may be lifted and dropped without penalty, as near as possible to the place where it lay, but not nearer the hole. A ball lifted in a hazard, under such circumstances, shall be dropped in the hazard.

A ball lying in a golf hole or flag-hole, or in a hole made by the greenkeeper, may be lifted and dropped without penalty as near as possible to the place where it lay, but not nearer the hole.

RULING OF THE U. S. G. A.

"As near as possible" shall mean within a club length.

If a ball lie on or within a club length of a drain cover, water pipe or hydrant, it may be lifted and dropped without penalty as near as possible to the place where it lay, but not nearer the hole.

11. Before striking at a ball, the player shall not move, bend, nor break anything fixed or growing near the ball, except in the act of placing his feet on the ground for the purpose of addressing the ball in soling his club to address the ball, and in his upward and downward swing, under penalty of the loss of the hole, except as otherwise provided for in the Rules.

RULING OF THE U. S. G. A.

"Near the ball" is within a club's length.

"Otherwise provided for" in Rules 12, 13, 31.

Penalty:

done to improve its lie; the club shall not touch the ground, nor shall anything be touched or moved before the player strikes at the ball, subject to the following exceptions: (1) The player may place his feet firmly on the ground for the purpose of addressing the ball; (2) In addressing the ball, or in the upward or downward swing, any grass, bent, whin, or other growing substance, or the side of a bunker, wall, paling, or other immovable obstacle may be touched; (3) Steps or planks placed in a hazard by the Green Committee for access to or egress from such hazard may be removed, and if a ball be moved in so doing, it may be replaced without penalty; (4) Any loose impediment may be removed from the putting-green; (5) The player shall be entitled to find his ball as provided by Rule 31. The penalty for a breach of this Rule shall be the loss of the hole.

RULING OF THE U. S. G. A.

Penalty:

In Match Play, loss of the hole.

In Medal Play, two strokes.

13. A player or caddie shall not press down nor remove any irregularities of surface near a ball in play. Dung, worm casts, or mole-hills may be removed (but not pressed down) without penalty. The penalty for a breach of this Rule shall be the loss of the hole.

RULING OF THE U. S. G. A.

Penalty:

In Match Play, loss of the hole.

In Medal Play, two strokes.

Pressing down the surface behind the ball by prolonged or forcible grounding of the club shall be deemed a breach of this Rule.

14. If a ball lie or be lost in water, the player may drop a ball, under penalty of one stroke. But if a ball shall lie or be lost (1) in casual water through the green, a ball may be dropped, without penalty, either directly behind or at the side of the casual water nearest to which it lies, but not nearer the hole (2) in water in a hazard, or in casual water in a hazard, a ball may be dropped in or behind the hazard, under penalty of one stroke. (3) in casual water on a putting green, a ball may be placed by hand behind the water without penalty.

Ruling of the U. S. G. A.

Penalty for lifting a ball in water:

In Match Play, one stroke. If, however, the ball be not dropped in accordance with Rule 15, the player shall lose the hole.

In Medal Play, one stroke. If, however, the ball be not dropped in accordance with Rule 15, the player must again drop the ball, under a penalty of two strokes—three in all.

No penalty for lifting a ball in casual water through the green. The ball, however, must be dropped directly behind the casual water, as near as possible in line with the point it entered. If it be impossible to drop directly behind, the ball may be dropped at the side, as provided for.

Penalty for breach of this Rule:

In Match Play, one stroke.

In Medal Play, one stroke.

A ball lifted from a recognized water hazard may be dropped under a penalty of one stroke, even if the hazard be dry at the time.

If the water in a recognized water hazard overflow its usual boundaries the overflowed portion of the course shall be considered as part of the hazard, and not as casual water.

The banks of any recognized water hazard are considered part of the hazard.

15. When a ball has to be dropped the player himself shall drop it. He shall face the hole, and, (except in the case of a ball lifted from casual water, for which provision is made in Rule 14) shall stand erect behind the spot from which the ball was lifted, or, in the case of water, the spot at which it entered, keep that spot in line between himself and the hole, and drop the ball

The penalty for a breach of this Rule shall be the loss of the hole.

If the ball when dropped touch the player, he shall incur no penalty, and if it roll into a hazard it may be redropped without penalty.

If it be impossible to drop the ball behind the hazard, it shall be dropped as near as possible to the place where it lay, but not nearer the hole.

RULING OF THE U. S. G. A.

Penalty:

In Match Play, for improperly dropping the ball, loss of the hole.

In Medal Play, two strokes, the ball to be redropped properly.

16. When the balls lie within six inches of each other on a putting-green, or within a club length of each other through the green or in a hazard (the distance to be measured from their nearest points), the ball nearer the hole may, at the option of either the player or the opponent, be lifted until the other is played, and shall then be replaced as near as possible to the place where it lay. If the ball further from the hole be moved in so doing, or in measuring the distance, it shall be replaced without penalty. If the lie of the lifted ball be altered by the player in playing, the ball may be placed in a lie as nearly as possible similar to that from which it was lifted, but not nearer the hole.

17. Any loose impediments may be removed from the putting green, irrespective of the position of the player's ball. The opponent's ball may not be moved except as provided for by the immediately preceding Rule. If the player's ball move after any loose impediment lying within six inches of it has been touched by the player, his partner or either of their caddies, the penalty shall be one stroke.

RULING OF THE U. S. G. A.

Penalty:

In Match Play, one stroke.

In Medal Play, one stroke.

18. When the ball is on the putting-green the player or his caddie may remove (but not press down) sand, earth, dung, worm casts, mole hills, snow or ice, lying round the hole or in the line of his putt. This shall be done by brushing lightly with the hand only across the putt and not along it. Dung may be removed by a club, but the club must not be laid with more than its own upon the ground. The line of the putt must not be touched, except with the club immediately in front of the ball, in the act of addressing it, or as above authorized. The penalty for a breach of this Rule is the loss of the hole.

RULING OF THE U. S. G. A.

Penalty:

In Match Play, loss of the hole.

In Medal Play, two strokes.

The "line of the putt" does not extend beyond the hole. The "player or his caddie" shall include his partner or his partner's caddie.

19. When the ball is on the putting-green, no mark shall be placed, nor line drawn as a guide. The line of the putt may be pointed out by the player's caddie, his partner, or his partner's caddie, but the person doing so must not touch the ground.

The player's caddie, his partner, or his partner's caddie, may stand at the hole, but no player nor caddie shall endeavor, by moving or otherwise, to influence the action of the wind upon the ball.

The penalty for a breach of this Rule is the loss of the hole.

RULING OF THE U. S. G. A.

Penalty:

In Match Play, loss of the hole.

In Medal Play, two strokes.

20. When on the putting-green, a player shall not play until the opponent's ball is at rest, under penalty of one stroke.

RULING OF THE U. S. G. A.

In Match Play, one stroke.

In Medal Play, one stroke.

21. Either side is entitled to have the flag stick removed when approaching the hole, but if a player's ball strike the flag stick which has been so removed by himself, or his partner, or either of their caddies, his side shall lose the hole.

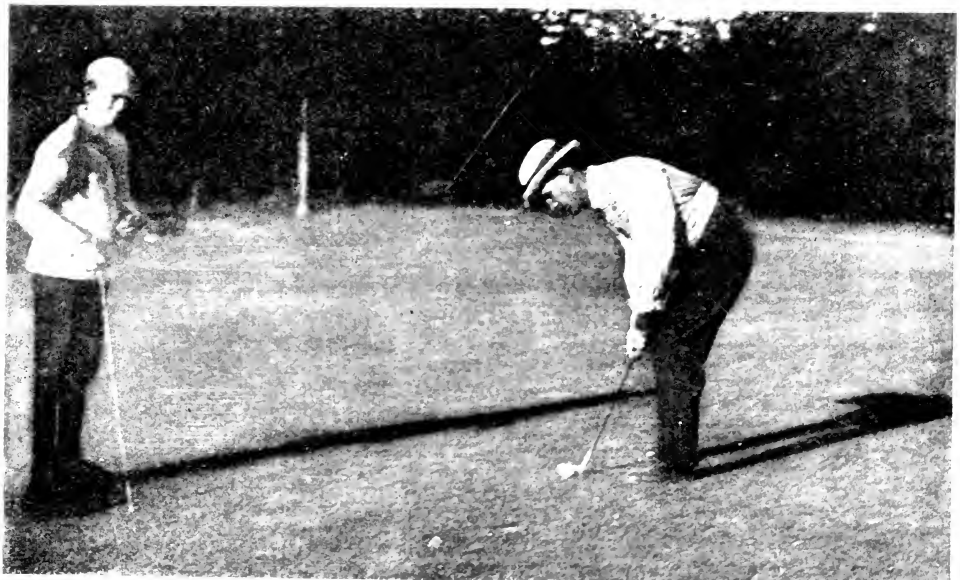
If the ball rest against the flag stick when in the hole, the player shall be entitled to remove the stick, and, if the ball fall in it shall be deemed as having been holed out at the last stroke. If the player's ball knock in the opponent's ball, the latter shall be deemed as having been holed out at the last stroke. If the player's ball move the opponent's ball, the opponent, if he choose, may replace it, but this must be done before another stroke is played. If the player's ball stop on the spot formerly occupied by the opponent's ball, and the opponent declare his intention to replace, the player shall first play another stroke, after which the opponent shall replace, and play his ball. If the opponent's ball lie on the edge of the hole, the player, after holing out, may knock it away, claiming the hole if holing at the like, and the half if holing at the odd, provided that the player's ball does not strike the opponent's ball and set it in motion. If, after the player's ball is in the hole, the player neglect to knock away the opponent's ball, and it fall in also, the opponent shall be deemed to have holed out at his last stroke.

RULING OF THE U. S. G. A.

Penalty: For striking flag stick when removed by player, or his partner, or either of their caddies:

In Match Play, loss of the hole.

In Medal Play, two strokes.



MR. WALTER J. TRAVIS.

If Player's ball knock in the other ball:

In Match Play the latter shall be counted as holed out in the last stroke.

In Medal Play, the latter must be replaced, and the player loses one stroke (in accordance with Medal Rule 11) or be disqualified.

If Player's ball displace the other ball:

In Match Play the other ball may be replaced, at its owner's option, but this must be done before another stroke is played.

In Medal Play, the other ball must be replaced and the player loses one stroke (in accordance with Medal Rule 11) or be disqualified.

22. If a ball in motion be stopped or deflected by any agency outside the match, or by the fore-caddie, the ball must be played from where it lies, and the occurrence submitted to as a "rub of the green." If a ball lodge in anything moving, a ball shall be dropped as near as possible to the place where the object was when the ball lodged in it, without penalty. If a ball at rest be displaced by any agency outside the match, excepting wind, the player shall drop a ball as near as possible to the place where it lay, without penalty. On the putting-green the ball shall be replaced by hand, without penalty.

Ruling of the U. S. G. A.

Ball at rest displaced by any agency outside the match, excepting the wind:

In Match Play, must be dropped, or if on putting-green replaced as near as possible to where it lay, without penalty, or the hole shall be lost.

In Medal Play, must be replaced as near as possible to where it lay, without penalty (Medal Rule 8), or its owner disqualified.

23. If the player's ball strike, or be moved by an opponent or an opponent's caddie or clubs, the opponent shall lose the hole.

MR. FINDLAY S. DOUGLAS.
Amateur Champion, 1898, and Runner-up, 1899-1900.
Metropolitan Champion, 1902-'03.

RULING OF THE U. S. G. A.

Penalty:

In Match Play, loss of the hole.

In Medal Play, no penalty.

If the player's ball strike the other competitor or his caddie or clubs, it is a "rub of the green" and the ball shall be played from where it lies. If a player's ball at rest be moved by the other competitor or his caddie, the ball must be replaced as near as possible to the place where it lay, without penalty, or the player disqualified. (Medal Rule 8.)

24. When a player has holed out and his opponent has been left with a putt for the half, nothing that the player can do shall deprive him of the half which he has already gained.

25. If the player's ball strike, or be stopped by himself or his partner, or either of their caddies or clubs, his side shall lose the hole.

RULING OF THE U. S. G. A.

Penalty:

In Match Play, loss of the hole.

In Medal Play, one stroke. (Medal Rule 7.)

26. If the player, when not intending to make a stroke, or his partner or either of their caddies, move his or their ball, or by touching anything cause it to move when it is in play, the penalty shall be one stroke. If a ball in play move after the player has grounded his club in the act of addressing it, or, when in a hazard, if he has taken up his stand to play it, he shall be deemed to have caused it to move, and the movement shall be counted as his stroke.

27. Except from the tee, a player shall not play while his ball is moving, under penalty of the loss of the hole. If the ball only begin to move while the player is making his upward or downward swing, he shall incur no penalty for playing while it is moving, but is not exempted from the penalty stroke which he may have incurred under Rules 9, 17 or 26, and in a foursome a stroke lost under Rule 26, shall not, in those circumstances, be counted as the stroke of the player so as to render him liable for having played out of turn.

RULING OF THE U. S. G. A.

Penalty for playing a moving ball (except at the tee.)

In Match Play, loss of the hole.

In Medal Play, two strokes.

But if the ball move while the player is making his upward or downward swing, a penalty is only incurred under Rules 9 and 17, by moving or touching any loose impediment or under Rule 26, by grounding his club, or in hazard, by taking his stand to play it, in which cases the penalty shall be:

In Match Play, one stroke.

In Medal Play, one stroke.

28. If the player when making a stroke strike the ball twice, the penalty shall be one stroke, and he shall incur no further penalty by reason of his having played while his ball was moving.

RULING OF THE U. S. G. A.

Penalty:

In Match Play, one stroke.

In Medal Play, one stroke.

29. If a player play the opponent's ball, his side shall lose the hole, unless (1) the opponent then play the player's ball, whereby the penalty is cancelled, and the hole must be played out with the balls thus exchanged, or (2) the mistake occur through wrong information given by the opponent or his caddie, in which case there shall be no penalty, but the mistake, if discovered before the opponent has played, must be rectified by placing a ball as near as possible to the place where the opponent's ball lay.

If a player play a stroke with the ball of a party not engaged in the match, and the mistake be discovered and intimated to his opponent before his opponent has played his next stroke, there shall be no penalty, but if the mistake be not discovered and so

MRS. C. T. STOUT,
Wee Burn Golf Club,
Amateur and Metropolitan Champion, 1901.

intimated until after the opponent has played his next stroke, the player's side shall lose the hole.

RULING OF THE U. S. G. A.

Penalty:

1st. Playing the opponent't ball with exceptions (1) and (2) noted in the Rule:

In Match Play, loss of the hole.

In Medal Play, no penalty. The ball must be replaced or the player be disqualified.

2d. Playing with the ball of a party not engaged in the match.

In Match Play, the loss of the hole, provided mistake is discovered after the opponent has played his next stroke and intimated to his opponent.

In Medal Play, disqualification, but if mistake be discovered before striking off from next teeing ground, the player may go back and play his own ball without penalty, or, not finding it, return as near as possible to the spot where it was last struck, tee another ball and lose a stroke (Rule 6, Medal Play).

30. If a ball be lost, except as otherwise provided for in the Rules, the player's side shall lose the hole, but if both balls be lost, the hole shall be considered halved.

RULING OF THE U. S. G. A.

"Otherwise provided for" in Rules 14, 32.

Penalty for lost ball:

In Match Play, loss of the hole.

In Medal Play, the competitor must return as near as possible to the spot from which the lost ball was last struck, tee a ball and lose a penalty stroke. (Medal Rule 6.)

31. If a ball lie in fog, bent, whin, long grass, or the like, only so much thereof shall be touched as will enable the player to find his ball; but if a ball lie in sand, the sand shall not be touched. The penalty for a breach of this Rule shall be the loss of the hole.

MISS FRANCES GRISCOM,
National Woman Champion, 1900.

RULING OF THE U. S. G. A.

Penalty:

In Match Play, loss of the hole.

In Medal Play, two strokes.

32. If a ball be played out of bounds, a ball shall be dropped at the spot from which the stroke was played, under penalty of loss of the distance. A ball played out of bounds need not be found.

If it be doubtful whether a ball has been played out of bounds another may be dropped and played, but if it be discovered that the first ball is not out of bounds, it shall continue in play without penalty.

A player may stand out of bounds to play a ball lying within bounds.

RULING OF THE U. S. G. A.

Penalty:

In Match Play, loss of the distance.

In Medal Play, loss of the distance.

33. A player shall not ask for advice from anyone except his own caddie, his partner, or his partner's caddie, nor shall he willingly be otherwise advised in any way whatever, under penalty of the loss of the hole.

RULING OF THE U. S. G. A.

Penalty:

In Match Play, loss of the hole.

In Medal Play, disqualification (Medal Rule 12).

34. If a ball split into separate pieces, another ball may be put down where the largest portion lies, or if two pieces are apparently of equal size, it may be put where either piece lie, at the option of the player. If a ball crack or become unfit for play, the player may change it, on intimating to his opponent his intention to do so. Mud adhering to a ball shall not be considered as making it unfit for play.

35. Where no penalty for the breach of a Rule is stated, the penalty shall be the loss of the hole.

MRS. E. A. MANICE,
Metropolitan Champion, 1902-1903.

36. If a dispute arise on any point, the players have the right of determining the party or parties to whom it shall be referred, but should they not agree, either side may refer it to the Rules of Golf Committee, whose decision shall be final. If the point in dispute be not covered by the Rules of Golf, the arbiters must decide it by equity.

Ruling of the U. S. G. A.

Such decision may be finally referred to the Executive Committee of the United States Golf Association.

37. An umpire or referee, when appointed, shall take cognizance of any breach of Rule that he may observe, whether he be appealed to on the point or not.

MISS RUTH UNDERHILL,

SPECIAL RULES FOR STROKE COMPETITION

1. In stroke competition, the competitor who holes the stipulated course in fewest strokes shall be the winner.

2. If the lowest scores be made by two or more competitors, the tie or ties shall be decided by another round to be played on the same day. But if the Green Committee determine that to be inexpedient or impossible, they shall then appoint the following or some subsequent day whereon the tie or ties shall be decided.

RULING OF THE U. S. G. A.

Except that By-Laws 14 and 18 of the United States Golf Association provide that, in case of ties for the sixty-fourth place in the Amateur Championship Medal Rounds, or for the thirty-second place in the Women's Championship Medal Rounds, respectively, the contestants so tied shall continue to play until one or the other shall have gained a lead by strokes, the hole or holes to be played out.

3. New holes shall be made for Stroke Competition, and thereafter, before starting, no competitor shall play on any of the holes nor on to any of the putting greens, under penalty of disqualification.

RULING OF THE U. S. G. A.

Penalty:

Disqualification. Competitors must always assume that new holes have been made. Practice strokes may be played through the green, and in hazards.

In Match Play competition, other than bogey competitions, practice strokes may be played on the putting green.

4. The scores for each hole shall be kept by a special marker, or by the competitors noting each other's scores. The scores marked ought to be called out after each hole, and on completion of the round the cards shall be signed by the marker, under penalty of his disqualification, and handed in. Competitors must satisfy themselves before the cards are handed in that the scores for each hole are correctly marked, as no alterations can be made on any card after it has been returned. If it be found that a score returned is below that actually played, the competitor shall be disqualified. For the addition of the scores marked the Secretary or his deputy shall be responsible.

DR. CARL MARTIN,
Fairfield County Golf Club.

RULING OF THE U. S. G. A.

The special marker, when appointed, shall take cognizance of any breach of Rule that he may observe, whether he be appealed to on the point or not. (Rule 37.)

In the absence of a special marker, competitors must note each other's scores and the cards shall be duly signed before being handed in, under penalty of disqualification.

5. If a competitor play from outside the limits of the teeing ground, the penalty shall be disqualification.

RULING OF THE U. S. G. A.

Penalty:

Disqualification.

6. If a ball be lost (except as otherwise provided for in the Rules of Golf) the competitor shall return as near as possible to the spot from which the lost ball was struck, tee a ball and lose a penalty stroke. The lost ball shall continue in play if it be found before the player has struck another ball. The penalty for a breach of this Rule shall be disqualification.

RULING OF THE U. S. G. A.

Penalty:

Disqualification.

"Otherwise provided for" in Rules 14 and 32.

7. If a competitor's ball strike himself, his clubs or his caddie, the penalty shall be one stroke.

8. If a competitor's ball strike another competitor, or his clubs or caddie, it is a "rub of the green" and the ball shall be played from where it lies. If a competitor's ball which is at rest be moved by another competitor or his caddie, or his clubs, or by any outside agency excepting wind, it shall be replaced as near as possible to the place where it lay, without penalty.

MR. FRANK FREEMAN. MR. JASPER LYNCH. MR. F. A. WALTHEW.

9. A competitor shall hole out with his own ball at every hole, under penalty of disqualification. But if it be discovered before he has struck off from the next teeing-ground, or, if the mistake occur at the last hole, before he has handed in his card, that he has not holed out with his own ball, he shall be at liberty to return and hole out with his own ball without penalty.

RULING OF THE U. S. G. A.

If he fail to find his own ball he shall return as near as possible to the spot from which he last struck it, tee a ball and lose a stroke. (Medal Rule 6.)

10. A ball may be lifted from any place under penalty of two strokes. A ball so lifted shall be teed if possible behind the place where it lay; if it be impossible to tee the ball behind the place where it lay, it shall be teed as near as possible thereto, but not nearer the hole. The penalty for a breach of this rule shall be disqualification.

11. All balls shall be holed out under penalty of disqualification. When a competitor's ball is within 20 yards of the hole, the competitor shall not play until the flag has been removed, under penalty of one stroke. When both balls are on the putting green, if the player's ball strike his opponent's ball the penalty shall be one stroke. The ball nearer the hole shall, on request of the player, be either lifted or holed out at the option of the owner, under penalty of his disqualification. Through the green a competitor may have any other competitor's ball lifted, if he find that it interferes with his stroke.

RULING OF THE U. S. G. A.

Penalty:

For playing before flag has been removed, one stroke.

HARRY VARDON.

For not lifting or holing ball nearer hole as above provided for, disqualification.

For striking opponent's ball, one stroke.

12. A competitor, unless especially authorized by the Green Committee, shall not play with a professional, and he may not willingly receive advice from anyone but his caddie, in any way whatever, under penalty of disqualification.

A forecaddie may be employed.

RULING OF THE U. S. G. A.

Each competitor may have a forecaddie but may not receive advice from him.

13. Competitors shall not discontinue play nor delay to start on account of bad weather, nor for any other reason whatever, except as is satisfactory to the Committee of the Club in charge of the competition. The penalty for a breach of this Rule is disqualification.

14. Where, in the "Rules of Golf" the penalty for the breach of any rule is the loss of the hole, in stroke competitions the penalty shall be the loss of two strokes, except where otherwise provided for in these Special Rules.

15. Any dispute regarding the play shall be determined by the Rules of Golf Committee.

RULING OF THE U. S. G. A.

Such decision may be finally referred to the Executive Committee of the United States Golf Association.

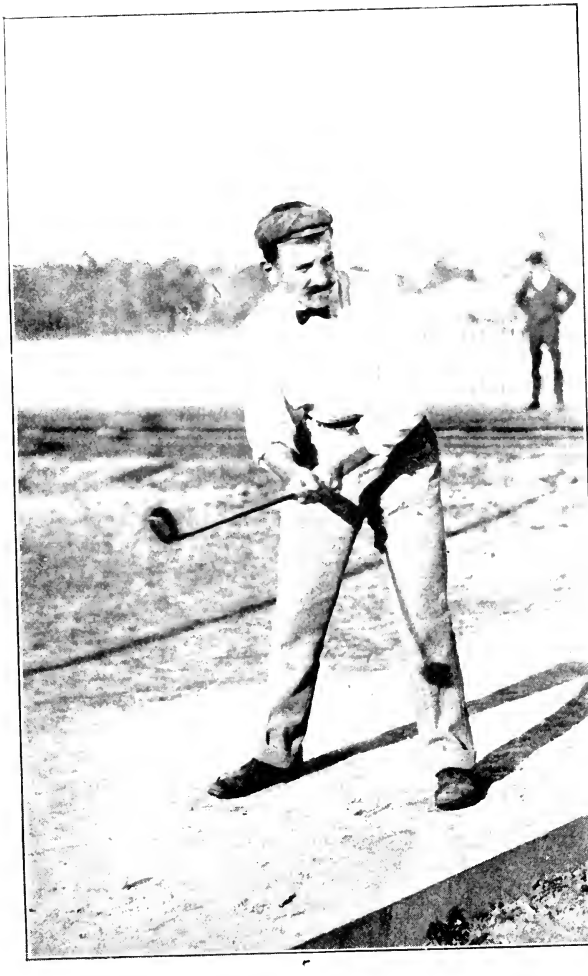
16. The Rules of Golf, as far as they are not at variance with these Special Rules, shall apply to stroke competitions.

RULING OF THE U. S. G. A.

Applicable also to Bogey competitions, excepting that a competitor loses the hole:

When the ball is lost;

When the ball is not played where it lies, except as otherwise provided for in the Rules.



GEORGE LOW,
Baltusrol Golf Club.

RULES FOR THREE BALL MATCHES

(a). In matches in which three players play against each other, each playing his own ball (hereinafter referred to as "a three-ball match") or (b) in which one player plays his own ball against the best ball of two players (hereinafter referred to as "a best ball match"), the Rules of Golf apply, subject to the following modifications:

1. Where, in a three-ball match, at any teeing ground, no player is entitled to claim the honor from both opponents, the same order of striking shall be followed as at the previous teeing ground.

2. Except as hereinafter provided, the side whose ball is furthest from the hole shall play first, but a ball lying nearer the hole belonging to one of that side may, at their option, be played before the ball lying furthest from the hole. If a player play when his opponent should have done so he shall incur no penalty.

3. If a player consider that an opponent's ball on the putting green might interfere with his stroke, he may require the opponent either to lift or to hole out his ball at the opponent's discretion.

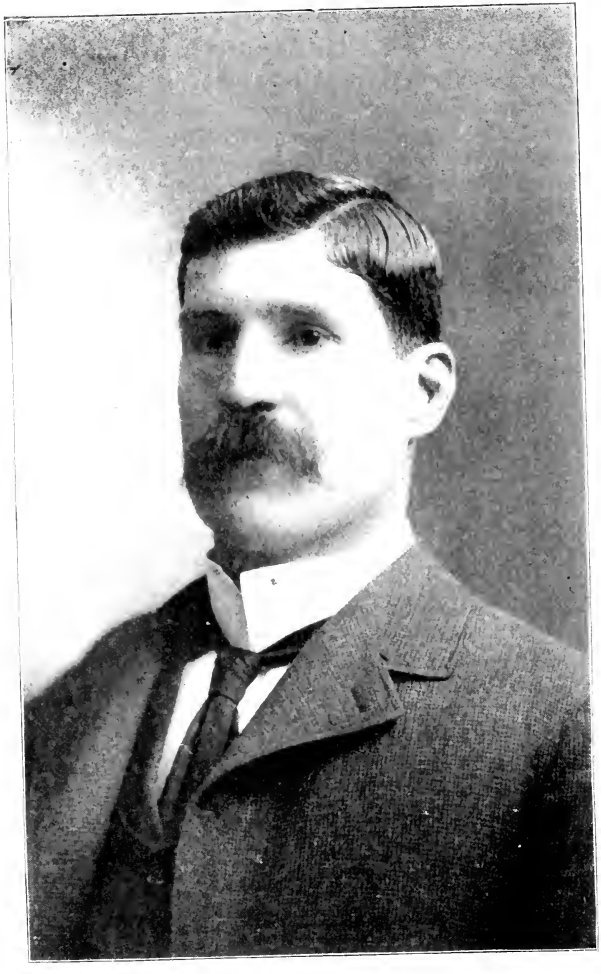
4. If an opponent consider that the ball of another opponent might be of assistance to the player, he may require that it be either lifted or holed out at the other opponent's discretion.

5. If an opponent consider that his own ball might be of assistance to the player he is entitled to lift it or hole out at his discretion.

6. If an opponent consider that the player's partner's ball might be of assistance to the player, he may require that it be either lifted or holed out at the player's partner's discretion.

7. In a three-ball match, a ball on the putting-green, which is moved by another ball, must be replaced as nearly as possible to where it lay.

8. In a best ball match, if a player's ball move his partner's ball or an opponent's ball, the opponent shall in either case decide whether the moved ball shall be replaced or not.



VALENTINE FLOOD.

9. If in a three-ball match a player's ball strike or be moved by an opponent or an opponent's caddie, or clubs, that opponent shall lose the hole to the player. As regards the other opponent the occurrence is a "rub of the green."

10. In a best ball match if a player's ball strike or be moved by an opponent or an opponent's caddie or clubs, the opponent's side shall lose the hole.

11. In a best ball match if a player's ball (the player being one of a side) strike or be stopped by himself or his partner or either of their caddies or clubs, that player only shall be disqualified for that hole.

12. In all other cases where a player would by the Rules of Golf incur the loss of the hole, he shall be disqualified for that hole, but the disqualification shall not apply to his partner.

RULING OF THE U. S. G. A.

The foregoing Rules for three-ball matches shall apply to four ball matches.

ETIQUETTE OF GOLF

The following established Rules of Etiquette, although not authorized under the present code, should be observed by all golfers.

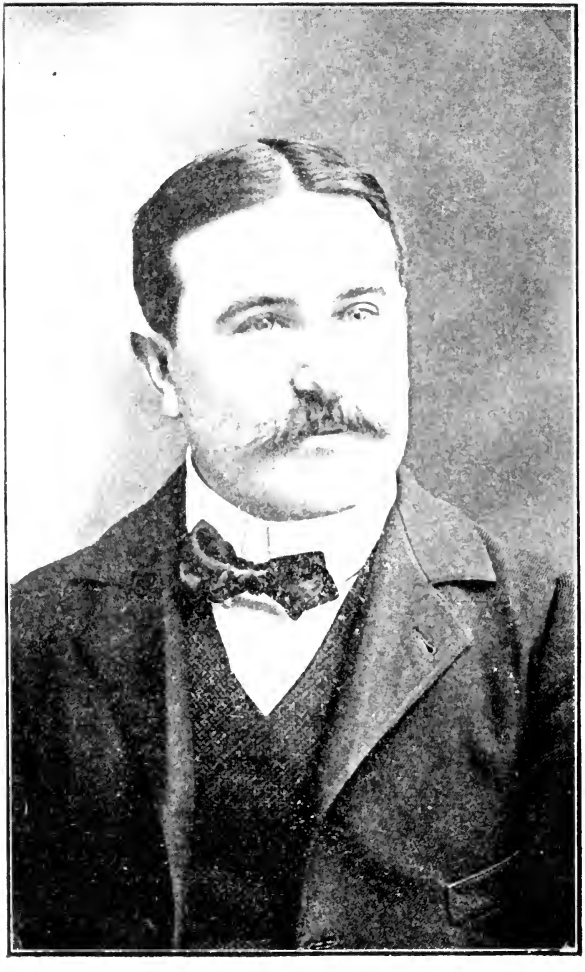
1. A single player has no standing and must always give way to a properly constituted match.

2. No player, caddie, or onlooker, should move or talk during a stroke.

3. No player should play from the tee until the party in front have played their second strokes and are out of range, nor play up to the putting-green till the party in front have holed out and moved away.

4. The player who has the honor should be allowed to play before his opponent tees his ball.

5. Players who have holed out should not try their puts over again when other players are following them.



WILLIE NORTON,
Golf Club of Lakewood.

6. Players looking for a lost ball must allow other matches coming up to pass them.

7. Any match playing a whole round may claim the right to pass a match playing a shorter round, or a match starting at other than the first tee.

While a three-ball or four-ball match may be passed (Rule 1—Def. A.) such a match keeping its place on the green should be treated as a properly constituted match.

8. If a match fail to keep its place on the green, and lose in distance more than one clear hole on those in front, it may be passed, on request being made.

9. Turf cut or displaced by a stroke should be at once replaced.

10. A player should carefully fill up all holes made by himself in a bunker.

Open Champion, 1899.

THE GAME OF GOLF

Golf may be played on any good, clear stretch of ground, where the grass is not too rank; and, although it is preferable to have it with no hills, many good courses have been laid out in a hilly country. The very best turf for golf is of the variety found usually only on the sea coast, viz., a sandy subsoil, covered with short, crisp turf, the roots of the grass extending perhaps one inch downward.

The soil on the links of the Atlantic City Country Club is the nearest to the ideal of any to be found in America.

The evenness of the ground should be broken at intervals with excavations or elevations preferably natural, but artificial when necessary, which are called "bunkers," and in the avoidance of which, in playing over the course, skill comes particularly into use.

Golf courses are usually called "links," not that the word has anything to do with the game, but more because the sandy stretches of land along the Scottish coast, where the game was first originated, are so called.

A golf course, properly speaking, should consist of eighteen holes, arranged at distances from each other of from 100 to 500 yards. If the amount of ground available for a links is insufficient for eighteen holes, a lesser number, usually nine, may be laid out, and the game played in the same way, twice around the nine holes, instead of once around the eighteen.

The holes should be laid out in a sort of rough circle, in order that the players may be near the starting point when they finish, and also in order that the outgoing or incoming players may not conflict with each other.

The distances of the holes should be arranged so that it will require one, two, three, four or five full shots, as the case may be, to reach the putting green. This green should be sixty feet square, and should be as smooth as it is possible to get it. The location of the hole should be designated by a disc or flag on the end of a three-foot pin, which, in turn, should set into the bottom of the hole. This should be four and a quarter inches in diameter, and not less than four inches deep. These holes should be changed as often as the grass directly around them showns signs of wear, but they should be kept as near the center of the green as is possible. The teeing ground, or place where the start for each hole is made, should be marked so that it may be readily designated, and as near to the last hole as possible.

The object of the game is to put a small gutta percha ball into a series of holes in the least number of strokes, and it can be played as follows:

Singles.—Two persons playing one against the other, each person having a ball, and counting by holes and not by the strokes taken for the whole round.

Foursomes.—Two persons playing against the other two, the partners playing alternate strokes, each side having its own ball.

The usual play is "hole play," that is to say, the game is decided by one player having won more holes than his opponent, the total amount of strokes taken to "do the course" not being considered, and each hole being decided separately and being won by the player who makes it in the least number of strokes.

In medal play, the player who makes the whole round in the least number of strokes is the winner.

At the commencement of the game the player puts a little pat of sand down on the teeing ground, and puts his ball on top and strikes or "drives" it as far as he can in the direction of the first hole. After that, until he "holes" his ball, he must play it strictly from its place as it happens to be, in sand, bunker or elsewhere, and not touch it again until he picks it out of the first hole, preparatory to teeing it again to drive to the second hole, and so on until he has gone around the course.

The most difficult to master, the most important, yet apparently the easiest part of the game, are the "approach" shots and "puts." Driving plays a less important part in deciding matches, although no one who could not drive fairly well could hope to excel in golf.

The average length of a fair drive may be said to run between 175 and 200 yards, provided there is no exceptional advantage or disadvantage, like a hill or a strong wind, although it is a recorded fact that the late lamented F. G. Tait, at St. Andrews, Scotland, once drove a ball all-carry, which an accurate measurement declared to be 280 yards, while Harry Vardon has frequently driven over 250 yards in his matches here during the past year.

GOLF CLUBS

All games inspire prejudices, but there is probably no other which does so to the extent that golf does, and therefore every golfer has a particular brand of club and ball which he swears by.

There are a thousand and one patents and inventions, but they are, as a rule, of little value. A few have merit, such as the Hollow Steel Faced Cleek, which is the same as an ordinary cleek, with the face hollowed out and a steel cover over the hollow. With this cleek a man can drive as far as he can with a wood driver, and the ball goes off just as "sweet." Others of considerable merit, which are now universally popular, are the Spalding aluminum clubs, made in all styles.

The Vardon mashie, if the verdict of half the golfing fraternity is any criterion, is superior to any other. The trouble with drivers and brassies in the past has been that it has been almost impossible to secure any wood which would stand the severe strain put upon it by striking a hard ball, and the almost universal fault by beginners of hitting the ball on the heel and toe of the club. This almost invariably caused breakages, and clubs which were guaranteed were done so provided they were not struck on the heel or toe. This proviso A. G. Spalding & Bros. have now done away with, as by a process which they put all the wood through before being made up, the strongest part of the club is at the neck, and it is almost an impossibility to break them. At any rate, they are prepared to guarantee that they are unbreakable, a guarantee not given by any other firm of clubmakers in the world.

All clubs have either wood or iron heads. The head of the wooden club is made of beech, persimmon or dogwood, usually the latter nowadays, while the iron-headed club is invariably made of mild steel.

A. G. Spalding & Bros. hand hammer all their best iron clubs and are prepared to duplicate any favorite iron which you may have at the same price as they charge for their stock clubs.

The shafts of all clubs are made usually of hickory, which is far the best, but occasionally of lancewood, green heart or ash.

The following is a complete list of golf clubs:

WOOD CLUBS.	IRONS.
Drivers,	Cleeks,
Mid Spoons,	Iron Niblics,
Long Spoons,	Putting Cleeks,
Short Spoons,	Driving Cleeks,
Baffy,	Lofting Irons,
Brassie Niblics,	Driving Irons,
Bulger Drivers,	Mashies,
Bulger Brassies,	Gun Metal Putters,
Brassies,	Medium Irons.
Putters.

The following is a description of the clubs:

The Putter is used for playing short strokes on the putting green. Short, stiff shaft, with head nearly at right angles to shaft.

The Cleek is the longest driver of all the iron clubs, with the face only slightly lofted.

The Driving Iron is deeper in the blade than the cleek and has more loft; not as long a driver as the cleek, but will pitch the ball higher.

The Mashie, a compromise between the lofting iron and the niblic, is shorter in the head than the iron, but has less loft than the niblic; used for short approaches.

The Niblic, used for getting a ball out of hazards, cart ruts, etc., has a small, rounded head, very heavy and very much lofted.

Lofting Iron, nearly same as driving iron, but much more lofted; will pitch a ball very high.

Mid Iron, same as lofting iron, but blade is not pitched so much; will drive a long high ball.

Driver or Play Club is the longest driving club there is; used to drive from the tee or wherever the ball lies well and long distance is required.

The Brassie, same as driver, but with brass plate on sole and generally a little more lofted; for use in playing "through the green."

Brassie Niblic.—Much smaller than the driver, with face well spooned back, sole shod with brass; used through the green with the object of raising the ball in the air when playing from "a cuppy lie."

Long, Short and Mid Spoons.—Heads same as brassie, but very much spooned, shafts long, short and medium; almost entirely superseded by the iron club.

The variety of clubs used in the game of golf is likely to confuse a novice, but it is not necessary to employ all the implements mentioned. A driver, a cleek, an approach iron and a putter will meet all requirements.

A set of six clubs would furnish a complete outfit for an expert, and might consist of a driver, brassie niblic, cleek, mashie, iron, and putter.

The ball with which the game is played is made of gutta percha, and weighs from 26 to 28 dwt, although 90 per cent of all balls used are 27 or 27½.

The balls should be kept from frost, which causes them to crack or split. It is best to keep them in a moderately warm room when not in use during the winter.

A considerable number of years ago golf balls were made of a compact mass of feathers stuffed within a leather casing. This, of course, is now absolutely obsolete. All golf balls at the present time are made of gutta percha, or of some compound into which gutta percha largely enters, and here it is in order to note a very important feature of the golf ball, viz., the "nicking."

Prof. Tait, who has given more study to what he calls the "dynamics" of the golf ball than any man living, says that the flight of a ball depends on its rotation, and that this rotation is affected beneficially by the nicking of the ball, and even more important is the absolute fact that, were the ball smooth, that portion of the ball which received the impact of the club would not spring out again with the same elasticity as it does when striking against numerous ridges and knobs formed by nicking. The great trouble with golf balls as a rule is that they are either too hard or too soft, and in the first instance they break the face of the club and in the latter the purse of the player by quickly becoming useless.

HOW TO PLAY

THE DRIVE.

Cultivate a good style. Style may not be of the greatest importance which some veterans insist on, but few will deny that a good style is a distinct advantage to a man who wishes to become a good player.

The beginner having got his clubs, we would advise him in commencing the game to go to some good professional and put himself in his hands for a couple of hours at a time. See that your instructor is built pretty much on the same lines as yourself. It seems to me to be absurd for a big, heavy-built man to take lessons from a little, slim boy, who can tie himself in a knot and swing, and yet come back perfectly steady on his feet just as he hits the ball, and expect to do the same yourself with about 100 pounds more flesh covering your muscles. You will be told that all good drivers and professionals have the same theory in driving, and that they merely obtain the same results by putting those theories into practice in a different manner, but the fact remains that we are naturally imitative and we really arrive at some fixed way of standing to address a ball, not by being put in a particular position and having our arms raised in a particular way, but by observing someone else do what we are trying to learn. And it stands to reason that if a man will observe a player driving whose build is similar to his own, it will be much easier for him to imitate the player and consequently much quicker to obtain the desired results.

As it is not always within the means of all beginners (for various reasons) to have the advantage of coaching by a competent instructor, a few hints given here may not be amiss.

The first thing to engage your attention then, as you stand upon the tee ready to begin, is to see that you sole your club properly, i. e., allow the club head to rest flat on the ground immediately behind the ball. This is called soling the club or giving a club its only lie. At the same time see that the face or the part of the club intended to strike the ball is held at a perfect right angle to the direction in which you intend to play for. Having done that, then stand in a perfectly parallel line to the intended direction with both feet aligned, care being taken to see that you do not have the right foot dragging behind the left. This will make of the line of the ball and the position of your feet two perfectly parallel lines.

Now stand perfectly easy, with the feet firmly set upon the ground. Don't be tense, but hold yourself as relaxed as you possibly can, your main object being to stand in such a way that when you swing you will bring your club straight and squarely behind the ball in describing the circle, and follow through in the direct line for the object aimed at, viz., the hole, with the least possible exertion to yourself. Should you on the contrary seek to stand with the right foot behind the line of the left one, and which by the way is the stance most commonly adopted by beginners, your follow through will not be as free as it should be, the tendency being to press the club through with the right hand, and resulting in a slice or a pull, according to how the ball is hit, at the same time finishing your stroke with both legs crossed—not a very stylish finish by any means, and apt to make the player lose his equilibrium.

Having got some idea of how to stand, and also as to allowing your club to sole properly, the very next step in order is the position of the ball, i. e., where shall it be teed? Of course many men have many styles, and while one can see a few players tee their ball near the right foot, the vast majority tee very nearly opposite the left. And this is the position we would advise beginners to adopt as being one of the best. Our reasons are these: As the player about to play grasps the club he, as a rule, holds it with the left hand on top, the right being under.

FIG. 1. ADDRESSING THE BALL—HARRY VARDON.

This naturally makes the left arm exactly the width of the hand longer than the right one. Consequently in seeking to swing the club correctly the head will reach the bottom of the arc in describing the circle when it comes in a straight line with the longest arm, or left shoulder. As this is purely an arm-and-shoulder movement, the left shoulder is thus necessarily the axis of the swing. Following this theory out, the beginner will then see, as he stands with his feet apart ready to make the stroke, that his left shoulder is almost in perfect line, vertically, with his left heel, and that if the ball is teed in line with the same, the plane of the axis maintained, he must assuredly connect with the ball at the proper moment.

The great trouble with most beginners when commencing to play is that almost invariably they commit one of two faults. One of them is that when lifting the club to the shoulder in preparing for the downward sweep they are apt to raise the body ever so slightly as they raise the club. The consequence is that the ball is topped, if not missed, altogether. The other is the act of swaying the body away from the ball, thus again changing the plane of the axis, with the result that the head of the club comes in contact with Mother Earth many inches behind where the ball is teed. Keep then the head and body as steady as you can, always remembering that the arms and shoulders will do all that is necessary in getting away a good ball.

Another point to aid the beginner here in judging whether he is doing right according to this theory is to see that when he is addressing the ball the shoulder, hands and the head of the club will be in a perfectly straight line at right angles to the direction of the hole.

Of course there are exceptions to the general rule of teeing of the left foot, such as upon getting a hanging lie or when there is a dead head wind blowing, but as the beginner is only at the tee just yet, we will let this suffice for the present.

Now we come to the grip. How to hold the club. Grasp the club firmly about an inch from the top of the shaft, with the fingers of the left hand, being careful to see that the knuckles point in the direction of the proposed flight of the ball. Then allow the right hand to come as close to the left as possible, but holding as loosely as consistent with safety in the fingers of the right. This grip, the beginner can see, is that the shaft is allowed to lie in the second and third joints of the fingers, and that the hands are allowed to close over. Never, upon any account, grasp the shaft in the palms of the hands, as if you do you will lock the joints of the wrists, and they will not be able to respond in rythym with the swing of the club.

Having got these ideas firmly in his mind, the beginner can now try and execute the preliminary "waggle." The ideal waggle consists in a gentle swaying to and fro, once or twice only, of the club over the ball and in the same vertical plane as the arc which the head of the club ought to describe in the actual stroke. Waggle with your wrists only. Let the club head rest again for a moment behind the ball before making your upward swing (a golfing drive is not a hit; it is distinctly and absolutely a swing), and have your hands well down, about on a level with your lowest waist button. Swing your club back to a horizontal position behind the head, never for a second taking your eye off the ball, allowing the body to turn gently with its weight upon the right foot, raising the left heel slightly off the ground, a perfectly natural motion. Keep the head of your club perfectly steady and let your upward and downward swing be practically one motion. Your body, your arms, in fact your whole frame, should, at the moment of striking the ball, be in the same position precisely as when you addressed the ball. Let your club head follow the ball in its flight as far as you possibly can, finishing up, if possible, where you commenced, as in Fig. 2. If the beginner has ever swung Indian clubs, it will be all the easier for him to master, as it is practically the same in theory, giving the club the impetus and allowing the wrists to carry it through. Two lessons with a competent instructor should allow the veriest novice to get on to the hang of it.

The following is an expression of opinion from Vardon, present champion, one of the best drivers in the world, on "driving":

FIG. 3. STANCE FOR THREE-QUARTER STROKE—HARRY VARDON.

"Many things on which we differ are of little or no importance, and the various opinions can be experimented on by the tyro without running the risk of incurring much hurt, but there are other things about which it will be wise for him to find out from more experienced players the reasons for and against, and then make a choice of what appears to be best, and persevere in thinking it so, despite conflicting opinions. While there is no reason why any one should not become a good player who follows out the advice given by 'Badminton,' there are reasons why they cannot follow that advice, though they may try very hard to do so. The great drawback to those who would learn to play golf without having a professional adviser at their side is that they cannot see themselves as others see them. Could they do so, they would soon become aware of how poorly they are reproducing the swing of which they have read, and how certainly they are contracting habits which cannot fail to be detrimental to their progress. I think, therefore, that every one who is ambitious of becoming a golfer will do well at the outset to seek professional tuition. A few lessons then would probably be more useful than a great many after the faults referred to have been acquired. My manner of playing is different from either that of Dunn or 'Badminton.' To begin with the 'stance:' Instead of having my right foot to the rear I keep it some three or four inches in advance. This, I think, to be best, for it allows the body to follow much more freely after the swing in the direction of the intended flight of the ball. The weight of the body I throw mostly on to the right foot, not transferring it until the ball is being struck. By this means the body remains comparatively still during the backward swing, thus adding impetus to the flight of the ball. If the weight of the body be thrown mostly on the left leg when addressing the ball, during the backward swing, it has to be transferred to the right and back again with the downward stroke, thereby making, as it seems to me, the aim less steady.

"The position of the ball is as nearly as possible in the centre of the two feet.

"At the top of the swing my club is as nearly horizontal as possible. I grasp as firmly as possible with both hands throughout the swing for every shot. I am aware that the general belief is contrary to this, especially in the driving, but the fact remains that I find it very satisfactory, and there are many good players who, I know, are with me on this point. If the right hand be held loosely for the previous part of the swing, it surely must have a firm grip of the club when it strikes the ball.

"In gripping my club the left hand is partly hidden, the first finger and thumb being firmly locked in the right hand. The thumb of the left hand is kept along the shaft, not round it, and the little finger of the right hand rides the forefinger of the left. In this matter, so far as I know, I stand alone, nor do I venture to advise beginners or, in fact, any one else to copy it.

"As to pressure being put in the down stroke, pressure should be used throughout. I fail to see how one could come gently to within one foot and a half of the ball and at the last moment put in the necessary strength. Immediately at the descent of the club pressure should be put on, adding to its velocity until it comes in contact with the ball. The result in this case should neither be so strained nor likely to render the aim ineffective, as if it were made just when the club is nearing the ball.

"A very simple method of finding out whether your club is in its proper position at the top of the swing, and that the left wrist is down, is to glance over your left shoulder and look at the club head. If the name is facing you, your left wrist is wrong, and when the club head strikes the ball it will be at an angle and the result a 'pulled' ball. If the left wrist is down, as it ought to be, the face of the club will be facing you and not the name."

APPROACHING.

An approach shot may be any shot not a full one intended to find the ball on the green, and is generally an iron shot. The great failing of most approach shots is that they fall too short. For every six shots played, five out of the six are not up; therefore, in selecting your club, when in doubt select the longer driving one, as no accident is likely to increase the distance of your drive, and there are many to curtail it.

Always run a ball in preference to pitching it, unless there is some special reason which necessitates pitching.

APPROACH SHOTS.

Approach shots differ from one another:

(a) In point of distance.

(b) In point of elevation.

(c) In point of style.

And include:

(a)- 1. Three-quarter shots; 2. Half shots; 3. Stiff arm approach shots.

(b) 1. Running the ball up along the ground. 2. Lofting the ball with run; 3. Lofting so as to pitch dead.

(c) Includes (1) ball played with a straightforward stroke (club head moving in the line of flight of ball).

THE THREE-QUARTER STROKE.

The necessity for this stroke has almost entirely disappeared, owing to the fact that irons have been made with almost every kind of a pitch, and a man can now select a club and make a full swing with it and achieve the same results as would have been obtained by using one of the old spoons or irons which were all formerly made with a recognized amount of loft on each. It is so much easier to make a full swing than a three-quarter one that it is always better to use a shorter carrying club when the distance to the green requires a three-quarter stroke, if one of the long driving clubs is to be used.

HALF SHOTS.

The position of the ball and stance for playing half shots is somewhat, though not materially, different from that in Fig. No. 1. The ball is nearer the player's body, and nearer also to the line of the right foot. The right foot is also further advanced. Fig. 4 shows the top of the swing. It need hardly be pointed out that as the club is not swung far around, the shoulders and the body do not move as much as in playing a full stroke. The shoulders must move round and the body must be easier. The left foot will be just raised of the heel and nothing more, the left leg flexed to ease the swing. It may, in fact, be said that the feet should not, if possible, be moved at all.

FIG. 6. STIFF ARM APPROACH, CLUB AT TOP OF SWING—HARRY VARDON.

The elbow of the right arm should be kept in to the body, and not allowed to rise, but all the same the arms will be thrown out just as in playing full strokes. The follow-through will take place at the end of the swing, but instead of throwing the club and arms after the ball, they will rise quicker, and continue upwards over the left shoulder more than in the direction of the flight of the ball.

STIFF ARM APPROACH SHOTS.

Of stiff arm approach strokes there is an infinite variety of gradation—anything less than a half stroke falls under this definition. No further remarks on this subject require to be made, save that the ball should be nearer the player, and the feet closer together. Fig. 5 shows the position of the feet as the player addresses the ball; Fig. 6 shows the top of the swing. It will be observed that both legs are slightly more bent at the knees than is the case in playing a full shot, and that the body moves very little. I would only add: Stand firmly, and do not move the feet at all; keep the right elbow well into the side, and play from stiff wrists, giving the ball a quick, sharp hit.

In all these strokes the club must be held firmly with both hands, to give more command over it and to prevent its turning. It will be found of material assistance if the club is grasped further down the shaft; and the shorter the distance of the stroke to be played, the shorter a grip of the club may be taken.

In standing according to the directions above given, it will be found that while the weight of the body is supported on both legs, the right really gives the greater amount of support. This can be easily tested by trying to lift either foot off the ground. For the above reason, this mode of playing approaches has been termed "off the right leg," and it is the method most usually adopted. Fig. 7 shows finish of stroke.

PUTTING.

Putting can be divided into two heads:

1. Approach putting.
2. Putting out, or holing the ball.

The greatest stress must be laid on the fact that you must keep your eye on the ball and don't glance at the hole just as you "put." Play your stroke "off the right leg," the ball just in front of your right foot, which is a little forward. Hold the putter with equal grip of both hands, and remember that the head of your club must follow your ball in a straight line to the hole.

There are four golden axioms which should always be observed:

1. Never take your eye off the ball.
2. Do not aim too long.
3. Be up, for you can never hole out unless you go as far as the hole.
4. Treat the course as if you loved it—replace divots.

No. 12. Braid is notoriously a bad putter, but how brilliant a golfer he is otherwise may be judged from one of many similar instances: In a round of 76 over a course, with bogey at 78, which I chanced to witness, he missed six short putts of less than a yard—the best score of the day, in an exhibition match in which Braid, Taylor, Vardon and Tingey each played two rounds, being 75.—Ed., P. LAYING OUT A GOLF COURSE.

IT is impossible to write anything which would be of any value to a club about to lay out a golf course. It depends entirely on the lie of the land and the nature and location of the obstacles over which it is purposed to play. Any man who has played golf and who has seen any fair course, can do far better than could be done by reading a book on the subject.

If possible, get a professional who understands laying out a course, and pay him a fair compensation. It will be far cheaper in the long run to do that than to lay it out wrong, and after going to a big expense, have some good man come up and tell you: "If you want a good course, your greens ought to be in different places." If no one tells you, you will very soon find it out by experience, and any club who has been unfortunate enough to pass through the experience of changing a number of holes, can appreciate what the expense is in doing so.

Have your course in a circle, beginning and finishing, if possible, close to the club house.

Roughly speaking, do not have any holes crossing one another; do not make the course too difficult, and avoid trees, which are not legitimate hazards; beware of terraced greens.

The lengths of holes on the St. Andrews Links, Scotland, are as follows:

GLOSSARY OF TECHNICAL TERMS EMPLOYED IN THE GAME OF GOLF.

Addressing the ball—Putting one's self in position to strike the ball

Approach—When the player is sufficiently near the hole to be able to drive the ball to the putting green his stroke is called the "approach shot."

Baff—To strike the ground with the "sole" of the club-head in playing, and so send ball in air.

Baffy—A wooden club to play lofting shots.

Bent—Rush, bent-grass.

Bogey—Usually given the title of Colonel. A phantom who is credited with a certain score for each hole, against which score each player is competing.

Bone—A piece of ram's horn inserted in the sole of the club to prevent it from splitting.

Brassie—A wooden club with a brass sole.

Break-club—An obstacle lying near a ball of such a nature as might break the club when striking at the ball.

Bulger—A club with a convex face.

Bunker—Generally any rough, hazardous ground—more strictly, a sand-pit.

Bye—Any hole or holes that remain to be played after the match is finished. They are played for singly; unless the sides agree to make another match of them.

Caddie—A person who carries the golfer's clubs, and who can usually give him advice in regard to the game.

Cleek—An iron-headed club of considerable driving power, and sometimes used for putting.

Club—The implement with which the ball is struck. The heads are of three kinds—wood, wood with a brass sole, and iron only.

Course—That portion of the links on which the game ought to be played, generally bounded on either side by rough ground or other hazard.

Cup—A small hole in the course, usually one made by the stroke of some previous player.

Dead—A ball is said to be "dead" when it lies so near the hole that the "putt" is a dead certainty. A ball is said to fall "dead" when it does not run after alighting.

Dormy—One side is said to be "dormy" when it is as many holes ahead as there remain holes to play. (This word is probably derived from the French, like many Scottish terms.)

Draw—To drive widely to the left hand. (Identical in its results with Hook and Screw.)

Driver—See Play-Club.

Face—First, the slope of a bunker or hillock; second, the part of the club-head which strikes the ball.

Flat—A club is said to be "flat" when its head is at a very obtuse angle to the shaft.

Fog—Moss, rank grass.

Fore!—A warning cry to any person in the way of the stroke. (Contracted from "before.")

Foursome—A match in which two play on each side.

Gobble—A rapid, straight "putt" into the hole, such that, had the ball not gone in, it would have gone some distance beyond.

Grassed—Said of a club whose face is slightly "spooned" or sloped backward.

Green—First, the whole links; second, the putting-ground around the different holes.

Grip—First, the part of the handle covered with leather, by which the club is grasped; second, the grasp itself.

Half-one—A handicap of a stroke deducted every second hole.

Half-shot—Less than a full swing.

Halved—A hole is said to be "halved" when each side takes the same number of strokes. A "halved match" is a "drawn game"—that is, the players have proved to be equal.

Hanging—A "hanging" ball is one which lies on a downward slope.

Hazard—A general term for bunker, long grass, road, water, whin, molehill, or other bad ground.

Head—This word is a striking specimen of incongruity and mixed metaphor. A head is the lowest part of a club, and possesses, among other mysterious characteristics, a sole, a heel, a toe or nose, a neck and a face!

Heel—First, the part of the head nearest the shaft; second, to hit from this part, and send the ball to the right hand.

Hole—First, the four-inch hole lined with iron; the holes going out are marked with white, and those coming in, with red flags. Second, the whole space between any two of these.

Honor—The right to play off first from the tee.

Hook—See Draw.

Hose—The socket in iron-headed clubs, into which the wooden shaft fits.

Iron—A club made of the material its name implies, with the head more or less laid back to loft a ball. A most deadly weapon in a good player's hands.

Jerk—In "jerking," the club should strike with a quick cut behind the ball, and stop on reaching the ground.

Lie—First, the inclination of a club when held on the ground in a natural position for striking; second, the situation of a ball, good or bad.

Like—See under Odds.

Like-as-we-lie—When both sides have played the same number of strokes.

Links—The open downs or heath on which golf is played.

Loft—To elevate the ball.

Long odds—When a player has to play a stroke more than his adversary, who is much farther on—that is, nearer the hole.

Made—A player, or his ball, is said to be "made" when his ball is sufficiently near the hole to be played on the putting green next shot.

Mashie—A club which, both in its make and its uses, is a compromise between the niblic and the iron.

Match—First, the sides playing against each other; second, the game itself.

Miss the globe—To fail to strike the ball, either by swinging right over the top of it, or by hitting the ground behind it, is counted a stroke.

Neck—The crook of the head where it joins the shaft.

Niblic—A small, narrow-headed, heavy iron club, used when the ball lies in bad places, as ruts or whins, etc.

Nose—The point or front portion of the club-head.

Odds—First, means the handicap given by a strong player to a weaker in a single match, consisting of either one, two, three or more holes to start with, or one stroke per hole, or every alternate hole, or at every third hole, etc.; second, to have played the "odds" is to have played one stroke more than your adversary. Some other terms used in counting the game will be most easily explained here altogether. If your opponent has played one stroke more than you—that is, "the odds"—your next stroke will be "the like;" if two strokes more—that is, "the two more"—your next stroke will be "the one off two;" if "three more," "the one off three," and so on.

One-off-two, One-off-three, etc.—See under Odds.

Play-club—A wooden-headed club, with full-length shaft, more or less supple; with it the ball can be driven to the greatest distance. It is used when the ball lies well.

Press—To strive to recover lost ground by special hard hitting—a very dangerous thing to attempt.

Putt—To play the delicate game close to the hole. (Pronounced u as in but.)

Putter—An upright, stiff-shafted, wooden-headed club (some use iron heads), used when the ball is on the putting green.

Rind—A strip of cloth under the leather to thicken the grip.

Rub on the green—A favorable or unfavorable knock to the ball, for which no penalty is imposed, and which must be submitted to.

Scare—The narrow part of the club-head by which it is glued to the handle.

Sclaff—When the club-head strikes the ground behind the ball and follows on with a ricochet.

Scruff—Slightly razing the grass in striking.

Set—A full complement of clubs.

Shaft—The stick or handle of the club.

Sole—The flat bottom of the club-head.

Spoons—Wooden-headed clubs of three lengths—long, middle and short; the head is scooped, so as to loft the ball.

Spring—The degree of suppleness in the shaft.

Square—When the game stands evenly balanced, neither side being any holes ahead.

Stance—The position of the player's feet when addressing himself to the ball.

Steal—To hole an unlikely "putt" from a distance, but not by a "gobble."

Stroke—The act of hitting the ball with the club, or the attempt to do so.

Stymie—When your opponent's ball lies in the line of your "putt."

Swing—The sweep of the club in driving.

Swipe—A full driving stroke.

Tee—The pat of sand on which the ball is placed for the first stroke each hole.

Third—A handicap of a stroke deducted every third hole.

Toe—Another name for the nose of the club.

Top—To hit the ball above its centre.

Two-more, Three-more, etc.—See under Odds.

Upright—A club is said to be "upright" when its head is not at a very obtuse angle to the shaft.

Whins—Furze or gorse.

Whippings—The pitched twine uniting the head and handle.

Wrist shot—Less than half a shot, generally played with an iron club.

WALTER J. TRAVIS

Walter J. Travis is without doubt the legitimate champion, not only from the fact that he held the title for two years, but from his record of play in the various tournaments of the year. In fact, his record for the past two seasons shows a string of consistent play which no other amateur in this country, not even H. J. Whigham has ever equalled. With Whigham, Mr. Travis holds the honor also of being the only man in the United States to win the amateur championship twice.

He is an Australian by birth, but learned his game in the United States. It was only about six years ago that he began to play and he was long past the age when, according to theory, a man must begin to golf in order to be a great player. Mr. Travis made his first appearance as a championship aspirant in 1898 when, after qualifying fourth, he reached the semi-final round of match play, being defeated then by Findlay S. Douglas, the ultimate winner, by eight up and six to play.

In 1899 Douglas once more put out Travis in the semi-final round, but this time by only two up and one to play.

In 1900 Travis had his revenge for after leading the field in the qualifying round he went on and won the championship in most impressive style, defeating Douglas in the finals by two up in the most sensational finish ever seen on a golf course in America.

He also captured the Metropolitan Championship.

In 1901 he lost the Metropolitan through ill health, Charles H. Seeley, the Connecticut State League Champion, defeating him in the semi-finals; but a trip to England recuperated his strength and he once more captured the amateur championship.

Douglas in the semi-final round made him play thirty-eight holes, but the title holder's superior nerve and steadiness gave him the victory. It is to these two points as well as phenomenal putting ability which make him the really grand golfer he is.

The Vardon Flyer

VARDON'S OWN BALL

Manufactured in England for him from special gutta and Bramble marked. Vardon, during his tour of this country, played over seventy-two different golf courses, and either tied or broke the record on nearly every one. He claims for this marking a longer and truer flight than can be obtained from the smooth markings, and as he, on the average, outdrove every man he met and made the longest "carries" he ever made in his life, you can safely assume that there cannot be anything wrong with the balls or the clubs with which he performed this unparalled feat. The man is a marvel the ball is second only to the man.

The Vardon Flyer is never sent out until thoroughly seasoned, and for uniformity of weight and perfection of flight is not equalled by any ball on the market.

Vardon Flyer . . . . Per doz., $3.50

The Spalding Wizard Golf Ball

Rubber Cored

It is not an experiment, but a pronounced success

REMEMBER

IT IS

SPALDING QUALITY

That is, the best it is possible to produce

The covers of the Wizard Ball are manufactured from gutta percha and other resilient materials from a recipe known only to ourselves. We guarantee them not to crack, open or break during eighteen-holes-play. If they do, send them back and we will replace them.

THE CORE IS WOUND TO A HIGHER TENSION

than is possible on any machines other than the ones we use, and the highest tension must produce the best ball.

The Spalding Bramble Golf Ball

This is an American ball in every essential particular, although the gutta percha used in its construction comes from the Malay Peninsula. Harry Vardon played with Spalding Brambles during the first three months of his American tour. The results he obtained are the best proofs as to whether the ball is all right, and, in addition, he freely and frequently stated that he never played with a better ball.

Spalding's Aluminum Golf Clubs

Each $3.00

We never introduce an article regularly by placing it in our catalogue until we are certain it possesses qualities which will assure it of permanent favor. We adopt no freaks, and desire that Spalding clubs shall be recognized as standard wherever the game is played. Aluminum clubs, to our mind, represent no passing fad. Their merits and points of superiority have been attested by many of the most prominent players in this country, and the general run of players are gradually coming to understand the value of a non-rustable club, and one which will improve their general play without a doubt. We contend that every player desires to make a good showing at all times, and aluminum clubs will certainly increase his chances in that direction

The Spalding Hollow Steel Faced Golf Clubs

Patented June 8, 1897

Each, $2.50

This style club is something that should be in the caddy bag of every golfer really interested in playing the best game possible. In construction it is scientifically correct, and the idea is one that needs only to be explained in order to meet with general approval. We rivet a piece of one-sixteenth inch highly tempered steel on a hollow head, and in that way give you spring and resistance combined at the point where they are required. Golfers of international reputation have endorsed them highly, and they bid fair to revolutionize club making to a great extent. The set consists of cleek, lofting mashie, mid-iron and putter. Each has points of superiority over the ordinary style, and any claim we may make in regard to them we are sure will be borne out by your experience after a trial. We know that the cleek, tried fairly, should improve your shots at least fifty yards, and we can make this statement safely because the assertion has been repeated to us so often by those who are using the club now.

Schenectady Putter

This club, commonly known as the hammer-headed putter, first came into prominence at the open championship at Garden City, October, 1902. Mr. W. J. Travis, who tied for second place, used one throughout the entire game, running down some remarkable long puts. It can also be used in running up shots, as the face is lofted considerably.

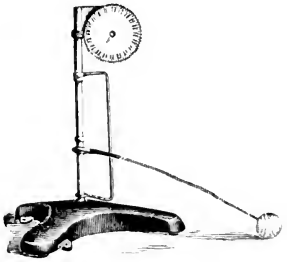
Wright & Ditson's New Golf Practising Device



The Wright & Ditson New Device for golf practice is the best that has ever been invented. It is constructed so that the player may practice any style stroke, using either wood or iron clubs, and with all the force he may desire. The dial registers from 1 to 100, so that a game may be played on the machine, starting from 0, and the player who makes 100 in the least number of strokes wins. The device can be used on any lawn or in the house, taking up very little room, as the ball revolves around the standard.

Every player should have one.

HOW TO BECOME A BOXER

For many years publications have been issued on the art of boxing that to a certain extent did not enable the novice nor the youth to become proficient in the manly art. There is probably no man in America better qualified to teach boxing than Prof. William Elmer, and in his book on the subject he goes into it very exhaustively. The book contains about seventy full page illustrations, showing how each blow is to be made, how to attack and how to defend yourself. It shows how the hands must be held and the positions to take, with descriptions that are so accurate that any boy can take them, open them up and with a young friend become proficient. Besides being a fully illustrated book on the art of self-defence, it contains nearly all the photographs of the leading American boxers and the positions they take, which in itself is instructive; the different rules under which all contests are held, and articles which will interest anyone on the question of physical education. In order to make this publication the most accurate one issued, Prof. Elmer had his sparring partner posed personally for all the illustrations.

Ten Minutes' Exercise for Busy Men

By Dr. Luther Gulick

Dr. Gulick says: "The experience of years has demonstrated the efficiency of the exercises contained in 'Ten Minutes' Exercise for Busy Men' in securing the ends for which they were devised. Many letters have been written by men, testifying to the great benefit which they have secured from these few minutes of simple but vigorous work.

"* * * The correspondence schools of physical training have come into great activity. Their general aim is to build up big muscles. A somewhat careful investigation of them satisfies me that they are inferior to the exercises in this drill for purposes of building up vigor and manliness.

"One of the most vigorous claims of some of these schools, namely, that the heart particularly is benefited by their work, is false, for I have had case after case of men whose hearts have been injured by taking the correspondence schools' work when they were not in condition for it.

"The exercises in 'Ten Minutes' Exercise for Busy Men' are recommended with the confidence of long, successful use. The results secured are better than those possible from the correspondence school work in the specific directions mentioned."
